- Completed Auto Physical Damage Claim Form AF-11 with wet or verified e-signature.

- Photos of exterior, cabin, dashboard, waterline, engine bay, rear cargo area, and odometer.
- Towing invoice and storage invoice showing daily charges separately.
- Repair estimate or total-loss diagnostic report from an approved inspection facility.
- Registration, lease or finance payoff letter, and both key fobs if total loss is declared.
- Written statement confirming whether the engine was started, attempted, or moved after water receded.
- Municipal incident number or police report if road closure signs were posted.

Reported Loss Narrative

The insured reported the vehicle was parked along Riverfront Avenue SW during a severe rainfall event. Water allegedly rose above the lower door seals and entered the front footwells. The initial call note states, "customer tried to move car but it would not start." The later written statement says, "I did not start or attempt to start the car after the flood."

The vehicle was towed to Northbank Auto Storage on May 31, 2026, but no tow receipt was uploaded until June 6. The repair shop noted moisture in the under-seat wiring harness and a hybrid-system warning light, but could not determine whether the warning light preceded the loss.

A separate hail advisory was issued the same evening. The hood dents may be unrelated or may form part of the same storm event. The claim file currently codes flood as primary cause and hail as secondary review only.

Exclusions, Conditions, and Tricky Clauses

- Known-roadway-water exclusion: damage is excluded if the driver knowingly enters a roadway, underpass, or marked flood zone where water depth is visibly above the curb line.
- Post-loss mechanical aggravation: damage caused by starting, attempting to start, jump-starting, or operating a flooded engine may be denied even if the original water intrusion is covered.
- Wear, rust, corrosion, mold, odor, and gradual electrical failure are excluded unless directly and solely caused by the covered flood event.
- Personal contents, aftermarket electronics not declared on the declarations page, and removable accessories are not covered under this auto policy.
- Storage charges after five calendar days require written approval; verbal shop comments do not extend the storage allowance.

Confusing Legal / Insurance Language Excerpts

Subject to all terms, limitations, exclusions, endorsements, and conditions, direct and accidental physical loss to a covered automobile may be payable where such loss is proximately caused by flood, rising water, or stormwater accumulation. However, no payment shall be made for loss consisting of or increased by intentional operation, negligent operation, or failure to protect the automobile after the insured knew or reasonably should have known of the condition giving rise to the loss.

The insurer may elect to repair, replace, pay the actual cash value, pay the cost of repair less betterment, or return the covered automobile with unrepaired prior damage excluded from payment. The existence of a repair estimate does not create an obligation to repair if, in the insurer's judgment, the automobile is a constructive total loss.

Any payment for electronic modules, battery assemblies, safety sensors, or calibration components is subject to verification that such component damage resulted from the covered occurrence and was not due to a manufacturer defect, open recall, pre-existing diagnostic code, deferred maintenance, or unrelated water exposure occurring before the reported date of loss.
